SERVICE LEARNING FALL 2014 COURSES

Service Learning is a kind of experiential education that connects classroom learning with community service. In collaboration with community organizations, students learn about and apply tools of the academic discipline and specific course concepts in their service experiences. This combination enhances academic learning and civic awareness while also providing a meaningful service to and with the community. Course credit and grading are for the learning not for the service. The service activities for the course are similar to the readings, lectures, class discussions and other assignments—all are contexts for student learning. Courses will appear with the following notation in the right-hand column of the schedule of classes: SerL or SerL Option.

SerL = all students in the course are required to participate in service learning

SerL Option = students have a choice to participate in service learning as a final project and/or in lieu of another comparable project.

JESUIT UNIVERSITIES HUMANITARIAN ACTION NETWORK (JUHAN) FALL 2014 COURSES

The Jesuit Universities Humanitarian Action Network (JUHAN) was created to make sophistication in humanitarian response a hallmark of Jesuit undergraduate education. Grounded in the Jesuit tradition of developing “men and women for others,” JUHAN seeks to advance both undergraduate humanitarian education by bringing students into the professional field at an early stage in their education as well as by providing students who are not pursuing humanitarian action careers with the knowledge and skills needed to fulfill their responsibilities as engaged citizens.

JUHAN focus on developing an educational program that places emphasis on the ethical dimensions of humanitarian action while leveraging the centuries-old Jesuit commitment to education globally to reach across institutional, national and international boundaries and provide students and faculty with a wide range of resources and opportunities. JUHAN also provides an opportunity for faculty, students and staff at Jesuit Universities to collaborate on joint project, research programs and curriculum development.

Faculty Facilitator: Prof. Jo Yarrington

The 2014–2015 academic year serves as the first of a two-year University campus-wide focus: WATER. The goal of offering a University focus is to highlight and promote interdisciplinary learning via a campus-wide conversation on a specific issue. The new focus will offer students from all academic disciplines the opportunity to delve into the theme while pursuing their studies and offer more integrative learning practices. This also involves the addition of a newly created Water Focus Curricular Sequence of classes for 2014–2015.

Fall 2014:

- 3 credit course selected from Water list (plus attendance at 3 Water events)

Spring 2015:

STUDENTS: How to find your Faculty Advisor?

Students can look up the name of their Faculty Advisor through my.Fairfield.edu. Click on the Student Tab, and then click “My Academics,” click “Advising” under the Quick Links (left side of the screen). Then click “Advisor Name.” Select the current term (for example, 201409 is Fall 2014), and click “Submit.”

UNDERGRADUATE REGISTRATION PROCESS

- Students with a financial or Dean of Students hold will not be able to register.
- Students need to see their faculty advisor prior to registration to discuss course selection and to receive their PIN.
- Students are NOT excused from class to register. This includes cutting class or leaving class early.
- On-line registration will be by class year: one day for all students in each class to register for his/her courses. Classes will go on-line in alphabetical groupings starting at 8:30 a.m. on their designated day. Fall Varsity Athletes will precede the alphabetical groupings.
- Students will register for major, minor, core and elective courses on their class registration day and are limited to a maximum of 20 credits.
- The on-line registration system will be active for each class until 11:59 p.m. Then the student's on-line registration and PIN will be turned off until Tuesday, April 22 when add/drop begins.
- There will be a day in between each class registration for departments to review registrations and for students who missed their registration to register in person in the Registrar's Office.
- The University reserves the right to cancel courses for which there are insufficient registration or change time codes or professors as deemed necessary.
- Most courses will be open during the on-line registration period. Some departments (with courses that have specific populations) may incrementally increase the maximum number of spaces in some of their courses by class.

Waitlist Courses

The waitlist for courses will be turned on at the beginning of on-line registration, except for courses with maximums that are increased incrementally.

- When a space opens up in a class, the first student on the waitlist will be notified via his/her Fairfield student e-mail account, with instructions on how to register for the waitlisted class. They will have 24 hours from the time the email is sent to register for the class. If there is a conflict in his/her schedule, they will have to resolve that issue before registering for the waitlisted class. If they fail to register for the class by the deadline stated in the email, they will be taken off of the waitlist for that class.
- The use of the wait lists and the process of notifying students will run from Monday, May 5 through Friday, August 29. During this period, the Registrar's office will not honor write-ins for closed courses from faculty. The electronic waitlist will be the only mechanism for filling available openings in courses. After September 1, students can register for classes with open seats on a first come, first serve basis. During the Add/Drop period of September 2-8, the Registrar will accept write-ins from faculty for closed courses.

NEW COURSE DESCRIPTIONS

AH 13 – Art of Africa, the Caribbean, and the Americas

This course is an introduction to art and architecture of Africa, the Caribbean islands, and Central America, South America and North America. Major works of art and architecture will be examined to understand the respective cultures and traditions of these regions. Cultures designated by their geographical locations will provide a frame of study for African visual culture. Art of Caribbean islands and the influence of the African diaspora will be explored. The Americas will be represented by Pre-Columbian and Native American visual arts. Students will be introduced to different art historical approaches and vocabulary used to study art from each of these areas. Three credits.

AH 14 – Art of Asia (NOTE: This course replaces the current AH 12)

This course introduces major monuments of the arts of Asia, including architecture, painting, sculpture, ceramics, and prints. Following a roughly chronological progression spanning over three millennia, the course emphasizes contact between Asian civilizations, including South, Southeast, Central, and East Asia, as well as artistic exchanges between Asia and the West. Foci include: ancient funerary arts, the development of Buddhist art throughout the continent, and secular arts associated with imperial courts and the rise of cities. The course highlights collections of Asian art at the Bellarmine Museum, Yale University, and in New York City. Three credits.

BI 73 – Contemporary Nutrition: Food for Thought

This course will introduce non-science majors to the core biological processes of nutrition and contemporary nutrition concerns related to human growth and well-being throughout life. The course will include material on: food selection and preparation, sensory evaluation, human nutrition, diet analysis, and the relationship between diet and disease. Students will gain the knowledge and skill development necessary to achieve a nutritionally healthy lifestyle. Between this course and CH 33, only one of them may satisfy the Natural Sciences core requirement; this course does not satisfy requirements for the Biology major or minor. No prerequisites. Three credits.

BI 330 – Nutrient Metabolisms

This course is designed to provide students with an in-depth understanding of nutrient metabolism in humans. This course will examine the digestion, absorption, and metabolism of macronutrients: carbohydrate, lipid and protein, in addition to the essential biological functions of vitamins and minerals. The emphasis of this course will be on the interrelationship and control of nutrient utilization by various organ systems in the body, building upon principles of human physiology and biochemistry. This course cannot be taken as a biology block elective if BI 325 lecture has been taken previously. (Prerequisites: BI 170, BI 171, and BI 172, CH 111-112 and CH 211-212). Three credits.

CO 233 – Information Technologies: Economics, Law, and Policy

An in-depth exploration of current issues and trends that shape the institutional environment of information industries and new media, both domestically and globally. By digesting and analyzing a diversity of scholarly sources, news reports, and materials generated by multiple stakeholders, students will gain a critical perspective on major economic, legal, and policy questions that affect the production, access to, circulation, and processing of digital content, such as broadband penetration, regulation of intellectual property, crowdsourcing, privacy, surveillance, net neutrality, emerging revenue models for information goods, and regulation and governance of the Internet. (Prerequisite: CO 130). Three credits.

CO 242 – Alcohol, Addiction and Culture

From the time we are young children through our adult lives we are exposed to countless alcohol advertisements and engage in myriad alcohol-focused conversations with family, friends and coworkers. This course draws on perspectives from the personal to the institutional to critically examine the conversations on alcohol consumption, promotion, education and recovery from a health communication perspective. Through service learning opportunities with local high school seniors, students in the course reflects on the ways in which we talk about alcohol use, abuse, and alcoholism, and how that “talk” cultivates harmful and helpful perceptions and behaviors. (Prerequisites: CO 100, CO 101). Three credits.

CO 345 – Relational Communication

Close relationships can bring us a great deal of joy, happiness, and love, but unfortunately they can also be sources of frustration, pain, and conflict. This course is designed to help us understand the critical role of communication in developing, maintaining, and terminating close relationships with romantic partners, friends, and family members. The course examines the most current research and theory on a variety of topics that are central to understanding and maintaining close relationships, with a focus on attraction, attachment, conflict, power, emotion, transgression, reconciliation, and termination. (Prerequisite: CO 200). Three credits.

FI 398 – Financial Trading and Strategic Simulations

This new course will count as a 300 level finance elective. Description: In this course you will actively trade a variety of financial assets in a simulated and competitive environment. Topics include institutional trading, options trading, bond trading, mergers and acquisitions strategy, bidding on companies in play, arbitrage, hedging, program trading, and generally decision making in uncertain and evolving markets. Rotman Interactive Trading software and Excel will be used including both macros and possibly some VBA programming. Prerequisites: FI215 or FI210 (both is best), senior standing is highly recommended. Three credits.

RS 399 – Seminar: Religion/Physicality

The purpose of this course is to encounter the complicated, sometimes conflicted, relationship between major religions and the physical body, emphasizing Christianity and Buddhism, but occasionally drawing from Hinduism, Judaism, Taoism and Islam. During the semester, we will engage some questions, including but not limited to the following: Why have bodies been such a problem for the great religions of the world? What are the physical, sensory and neurological correlates of religious engagement? Can religious feeling be entirely encompassed in the embodied state or is disembodied transcendence essential/desirable/possible? Three credits.

SW 380 – Health Information Systems

This course introduces the information systems and their applications in healthcare. The topics include the fundamentals of information systems, medical terminology, electronic health record, health care information regulations and standards, assessing health information systems for managerial and clinical support, project management, information security, and Health IT Leadership. (Prerequisite: SW131 or instructor's permission). Three credits.

SW 381 – Human Computer Interface

This course examines human computer interaction and evaluates various user interfaces, especially as they apply to the health care environment. Topics include data visualization, evidence-based systems and tools (such as PubMed, Up-to-date), and data warehouse design with an emphasis on healthcare. (Prerequisite: SW380 or instructor's permission). Three credits.

TA 150 – Stagecraft

This is an introduction to the technical aspects of theatre production, which provides an overview of the physical stage, including the use of scenery and lighting. Students learn basic techniques of set construction, rigging and stage lighting. Proper use of hand and power tools commonly found in the theatrical scene shop will be emphasized. This is a course where class lectures will lay the foundation and lab hours will provide "hands on" time where students can put their knowledge to work. Students are required to participate in construction and rigging for Theatre Fairfield productions. No prerequisites. Three credits.

TA 256 – Stage Lighting

With light on stage, we create a vast array of environmental moods. In order to accomplish these effects, students must grasp two separate fields of information. First, there are technical elements: the nature of light, electricity, reflection, refraction, lighting instruments and control systems. Then there is light in the context of the theatrical production. This involves play analysis, visual research, and manipulating light in the theatre space. Both the technical and aesthetic aspects will be covered in this class. Safe use of lighting instruments and electricity is emphasized. Prerequisites: TA150 Stagecraft or TA155 Design I or permission of the instructor. Three credits.
